

INVITATION

2nd SymTA/S News Conference

Timing analysis is quickly becoming established practice at OEMs and suppliers for development tasks ranging from early architecture conception to certification of safety-critical functions. First standardization efforts have been launched in the automotive domain and elsewhere. At this dawn of a new design paradigm, communication among all parties involved is the key to success.

We are therefore expanding our yearly communication platform for users and developers of SymTA/S as well as everybody interested in timing analysis. We would like to invite you to discuss and share with us your questions, experiences, and requirements.

Who should join?

Function and software developers, system designers and architects, integrators and network responsables, test and certification engineers, managers and decision makers as well as researchers from OEMs, suppliers, service providers and academia.

Why you should join?

- Get a comprehensive view on all aspects related to timing, performance, reliability, and certification and learn about existing and future solutions in practice.
- Meet experts from industry, academia, research, and development, and discuss with them about the state-of-the-art and future trends of the technology.
- Influence our ongoing development. The better we meet your requirements the better you will be able to work with our and our partners' solutions.

Venue

The beautiful settings of the old monastery of Riddagshausen are a perfect place for productive communication. For those who want to stay over night, MMI Riddagshausen offers 4-star hotel service. A limited number of hotel rooms have been blocked for our NewsConference participants. Please inquire directly at the hotel. We can also help with alternative accommodation.
